

Max Valentine Weary was born on February 14, 1939, to parents Russell and Reba Weary, at 13 Chestnut Street, Mt Holly Springs. As a youth, Max loved being outdoors and even lived in a lean-to in the woods for a time. Max graduated in 1956 from Carlisle High School, and after graduation Max enlisted in the United States Air Force as a radio operator serving on a PT Boat along the Panama Canal.

After serving in the military Max returned to the area and married Nancy Hein from Hershey, PA. Max and his wife lived in the Palmdale/Hershey area, and had two children, daughter Kathy and son Mike. The couple moved their family to Hill Street in 1970, later moving to Dogwood Drive, Mt Holly Springs, where they still reside today.

Max worked as a railroad yardmaster and clerk for Reading Railroad and then Conrail Railroad where he eventually retired.

Max enjoys spending much of his time outdoors, hunting and fishing. Taking rides through the mountains looking for deer. He is very knowledgeable about the wildlife he loves and has "bagged" many deer through hunting. Max spends his mornings eating breakfast with his buddies at the Hamilton Restaurant, even helping the waitresses by starting the coffee pot for them.
